

The most exciting football match

It was a sunny day, I was at my friend's place, playing football with him. There wasn't a single cloud in the sky and birds were singing. It was very hot, luckily there was a slight breeze of wind.

Suddenly the ball flew up very high in the sky and when it came down, it landed directly on the roof of the neighbour's house. But it isn't a usual house, nobody lives there. Some people say it's haunted. There are rumours that sometimes in the night, there is a little candle light behind windows, and you can hear steps inside...

Slowly, and on the tips of our toes, we went down through the forest to the garden of the house. There were spiky bushes everywhere. When we were just about to go in through a broken glass door, we heard steps inside, and then, all of a sudden, there was the sound of glass breaking. And then there was nothing.

We jumped back and hid for a few minutes behind a bush. Then we slowly went back to the door and went in. It was spooky, there were spider webs everywhere. And then, suddenly we saw what happened: the ball came down over the stairs, bumped against a shelf and a glass fell down. Relieved, we took the ball up and had a nice afternoon.

Now, it's late in the evening. If I look out the window, I can't see any candle light or hear any noise ... Or do I?